

WEEKENDER JULY 30, 2009

SATURDAY AUGUST 1ST CONCERT AT THE CABANA

Judy and Charlie are back!

Judy Eron and Charlie Watkins will be back on Saturday, August 1, 2009 at 2:00 for a “Concert at the Cabana” at the Twin Lakes Cabana. If you were at the Ocean Park 4th of July parade, you would have witnessed them performing from the back of the big red truck pulling the Surfside float. If you attended the bridge opening ceremony last year, you would have heard the first of Judy’s “Concert at the Cabana” at Twin Lakes. They have composed a new “Surfside” song which you could probably not hear very well at the 4th of July parade but that you will be able to hear at the concert. Look forward to seeing you then....and remember to bring your own chair.

BOARD MEETING SATURDAY AUGUST 15

The regular board meeting for the Surfside Homeowners Association will Saturday, August 15th at 9:00am. In the Community/Boardroom 31402 H Street.

GOOD-BYE DINAH!

Dinah McCreddie is leaving us to begin working full time in her true counseling! She and her husband John will be devoting more time to their Living Hope Christian Counseling. We wish her great success!

Water water everywhere but our water is pumped from the ground and then pumped to you. This summer being as dry as it is, we are pumping more water than EVER!

We are currently asking for some Voluntary Water Conservation

Did you know that by watering you lawn continuously only promotes shallow grass roots? By watering your lawn early in the morning or during the evening you will be saving water by reducing the amount of evaporation that occurs during the day when the wind pick-ups during the mid-day hours.

Also something else to consider is to water less often, which would promote deeper grass roots and a heartier lawn.

Watering tip: Use a tuna can or cat food can and only water any given area until the can has one inch of water (or full) then move the sprinkler to a different area and repeat the process. You should not have to do this more than twice a week to maintain a green and healthy lawn even in our sandy soil. Simply watering continuously may give you a green lawn but it is at the expense of all the homeowners, which results in increased water dept. operating costs and increased homeowner dues in the future.

The following information is provided to help us keep all of our trees healthy!

Pine -- Western Gall Rust

Cause: Peridermium harknessii (sexual: Endocronartium harknessii), a fungus. The disease is commonly found on the hard pines, particularly those with two needles in the fascicle. Shore pine (Pinus contorta), lodgepole pine (P. contorta var. latifolia), mugo pine (P. mugo), Scots pine (P. sylvestris), and Austrian pine (P. nigra), appear particularly susceptible. Ponderosa pine (P. ponderosa) does not appear particularly susceptible.

Unlike white pine blister rust, western gall rust does not require an alternate host to complete its life cycle. Spores produced on pine can reinfect susceptible pines. Spores are shed primarily during shoot elongation. Shoots are susceptible from budbreak through shoot elongation. In the natural landscape, the disease is most commonly found in riparian areas or locations where moist air collects.

Symptoms: Rough, globular galls on trunk or branches. Galls are proportionate in size to the branches bearing them. When the fungus is fruiting (aecia), galls are orange or yellow. Galls may kill small trees but increase in size for many years on larger trees. Trees may break easily at the gall.

Note the swollen lodgepole pine trunk.

Orange pustules are the active aecia (spore producing body) of this fungus.

This is a typical gall produced by this disease.

Numerous galls can occur in susceptible trees.

Cultural control:

1. Remove trees with galls within 300 yards of nurseries.
2. In nurseries, remove all affected trees.
3. Remove galls whenever practical.

4. Favor uninfected or lightly infected trees during thinning or seed collection.

Chemical control: Needed only for landscape trees or Christmas trees. Protect new shoots from budbreak through shoot elongation.

1. Preventive fungicide applications. Based on a single trial in California with Monterey pine, triadimefon provided 7 days of protection and about 2 weeks of kickback activity. Disease control averaged 70%.
 - a. Bayleton 50 T&O is registered. Landscape only, not for use on plants for sale. 12-hr reentry.
 - b. Dithane DF at 2.13 to 4.27 lb/A plus a spreader sticker. Effective for Scots pine. 24-hr reentry.
 - c. Strike 50 WDG at 8 oz/100 gal water. 12-hr reentry.
2. Gallex (ready to use) painted on very young galls to reduce further development. Galls may return the following year or, if treated late, may continue to develop. Tissue surrounding the gall may be injured especially on younger plants. Prepare the surface by removing debris from around the galled area. Allow drying before application. Registered for use in Oregon and Washington but not registered in Idaho. 12-hr reentry.
